It Was REALLY So .- The report of Mr. Momfray seeing bear tracks on Beacon H II, which we mentioned a day or two since, was correct after all. Mr. Henley, of Clover Point, says he was awoke in the middle of the night previous to the bear tracks being seen by Mr. H. and others, by the loud and one very curious circumstance; at the end of continuous barking of his dogs, and going the by-law is published for general informaout stealthily into the yard, was astonished to find a bear gazing intently through the chinks of the styo at a fine litter of pigs, and evidently in doubt as to the particular one which would best suit his fastidious appetite. It would have been difficult to have determined which of the three was most surprised -fleuley, the pigs, or the bear,—at this, their first introduction; but suffice it to state that master bruin, as soon as he saught sight of Mr. Henley en dishabille, gave a loud snort, and away he went across the garden, minus the pig, leaving well defined footprints, which may be seen to this day.

THE THEATER.-The attendance at the Theatre last evening, in response to a benefit also, Charts or Drawing Paper mounted on for Madame Reiffarth, was not large. The City Ball By-Law.

EDITOR STANDARD : The article in your pa per referring to the proposed City Hall is well timed, as I think the enormous estimate of the value of real property made by the present Council is entirely fictitious, and if reduced to its actual value, would not amount to more than two-thirds of the alleged sum of $2,400,000.

But on the subject of this by-law there is tion, what purports to be section two of the Municipality Amendment Act, 1873, which would lead any one to imagine that it was necessary to pay one's taxes ten days prior to roting on this by-law; whereas the section of the Act only refers to municipal elections, and the words "at Municipal elections," after the word " vote" has been omitted. Was this done for the purpose of trying to prevent people from exercising their rights, and if so when is responsible for it? Victoria, Dec. 1, 1873.

To the Editor of the Mainland Guardian. Sunday Observance

Formerly, in more serious times than these it was believed possible to make people religious by Act of Parliament. An Act, w sely intended for that excelligious and gracions King, Charles the children do not think so, or some of them more to promote the cause of temperance Second. It is at Il occasionally enforced, than permissive bill, or temperance lecturers' at the instance of pious informers, by devout Magistrates, at the expense of nobody but cade; ch'effy small green grocers and the poverty stricken populace of low neighbourhoods. A case, how-ever, has lately occrred in which a Beach has been placed in trying circumstances by having been invoked to punish, not the transgression, but the observance, of this good old statute. Witness the newspaper paragraph which follows:-

"SALLOBS REFUSING TO WORK OF SUN-DAY -Ten sailors were charged before the Southumpton Magistrates on Saturday, by the Royal Mail Steam-Packet Company, with combining to disobey the lawful orders of their officers, in refusing to work on Sunday on board the steamer Liffey, on her voyage from Brazil to Southampton. The defence was that, under an Act of Charles the Second they were prohibited from following their employment on the Lord's Day. The Bench sentenced each man to seven day's became a byword and jest-it was felt that imprisonment. Notice of appeal was given."

It is to be hoped, in the interests of respectability, that the conviction of though the work they refused to perform on Suuday should be shown to have been quite unnecessary. The Sunday Act of Coarles the Second was never meant to Company's line of packet. The aim of that enactment was to enforce respect for called to a superior station of life.
